facade2009 - facade technologies

The 5th symposium at Detmold School of Architecture and Interior Design – a department of Hochschule Ostwestfalen-Lippe, University of Applied Sciences, is dealing with the technical construction of facades illustrated with case studies. Facades for office and commercial purposes are often very specialised and custommade solutions that differ from standardised products. Planner and executing companies are reporting about those individual solutions and how they are designed starting with ideas and sketches and developing it with simulations and prototypes until an efficient system is found. Creative, interdisciplinary and process-orientated operations are premises for optimised planning and production processes. After a key note speech more specific lectures take a look at the topic.
